How long have you been practicing in your field?

I have 11 years in postgraduate training in general and plastic surgery. After obtaining a degree in the Psychobiology Honors program at USC, I attended the medical program at the University of Colorado, receiving the coveted Owens-Swanson Award from the nationally 4th ranked medical school. I continued my medical training with a five-year residency in general, vascular and trauma surgery. I then continued my training in cosmetic, plastic and reconstructive surgery at the world famous Mayo Clinic in Minnesota. I am board certified by the America Board of Surgeons scoring in the top 95th percentile in the nation.

As a Las Vegas native, I believe in the importance of family, roots and community. I chose to return to my hometown to serve my community and bring with me an incredible wealth of cutting edge medical advancements.

What sets you apart from your competitors?

I am committed to excellence in all areas of my practice; however, it is my unique relationship with my patients that truly sets me apart. I spend time with each patient listening to their needs and concerns, and helping them make an informed decision about their treatment. My commitment to patient care is second to none. I fully understand the needs of my patients because I understand how powerful quality plastic surgery can be in enhancing one's life.

Safety is also a critical component to my practice. I allow only board-certified anesthesiologists to administer anesthesia to my patients and utilize ambulatory surgery centers that have only the highest accreditation possible.

This combination of surgical expertise, compassion, safety and utmost respect for the best interest of the patient provides for an optimal result but also a positive, happy experience for all my patients.

What part of your job do you enjoy the most?

A passion for using my artistic eye and surgical skills to improve the lives of patients and a compassion for those in need are what drive me. I am lucky to do something for a living that improves the lives of others so dramatically. It is not a job. It is my life. I find it most rewarding to see patients' confidence and self-esteem improve as a result of the procedure they receive. It is gratifying to see the changes that take place both inside and out!

What is your philosophy for achieving success?

My philosophy for achieving success, whether in the operating room, board room or personally, hinges on the degree of passion, persistence, dedication and effort that I put forth. I am passionate about what I do, that is what makes me successful and my patients happy. I go to great lengths to make sure that each patient has an optimal result. Procedures are carefully chosen and performed based on each individual. When I see a new patient, I make several commitments to them. I am committed to patient education as the patient's needs are always paramount. I am committed to educating them on their treatment options, offering them the best course of treatment to help them achieve the optimal result.
